- Is there a question that's been bothering you?
- Were you stumped in a conversation?
- Have you come up against a challenge that you think Christianity can't answer?

You've come to the right place.

I'm not saying we have all the answers, but questions don't make us uncomfortable. If our worldview is true (and we believe that it is), then we should not be intimidated by exploring difficult issues - as long as our goal is truth.

Your name will not be used, but your question will.

Our intent is to address issues one at a time and with a very narrow scope, so try to keep your question as brief and focused as possible.
